SKETCHES OF LITTLE OLD NEW YORK

BY O. O. McINTYRE

Telegram Bureau: Rooms 121-122 Hotel Majestic, West Seventy-second Street.

NEW YORK, May 2.—The Earl of Limerick is in our midst. When he is not writing poetry to keep his estates away from the cruel hands of the sheriff. Some say he is the culprit who invented the metre that bears his name and if it is true he should be sentenced to associate with the Vers Libre group in Washington Square.

The earl wears a monocle just as any self-respecting earl should. He was toting the monocle up Fifth Avenue the other afternoon when a gust of wind blew it right out of his eye to the asphalt.

A low browed common person picked it up and said "Mister I think you've dropped the crystal out of your watch."

"My word how extraw-dinary" was all the earl said. He says he much prefers New York to London for one does not have to keep looking up in the air all the time. It seems the earl had an experience recently with a Zeppelin bomb. It almost shook off his crown. He does not think they are nice things to have around the house.

Karl K. Kitchen, of the World, has plunged into literature by writing a book between assignments. Not long ago his paper sent him to Europe and he spent some time in Germany. He thought the material he gathered would make good reading and a publisher thought so too so the book will appear in a very short while.

The son of the late P. Hopkinson Smith is also a new author to make his bow. His book is to be published shortly. Despite the number of war books published recently it is said the sale for them—good or bad—is very big.

Edward Henry Clift, the tariff expert, was dining the other night in the Union League Club with a group of friends when he directed a companion's attention to a very dapper-looking man with a suspiciously red nose, who had just passed.

"A very prominent member of the Larchmont Yacht Club" announced Mr. Clift. "Is that so?" asked one of the group, who, as Mr. Clift knows, always evinces a strong interest in the doings of society. "What is his official capacity?"

"About three gallons, I think," said Mr. Clift. All of which shows that the prominent and wealthy men who loaf at the Union League—despite their heavy business cares—know how to crack a joke now and then.

The Union League Club is the mecca for the men who are doing things in New York. It is on an exclusive section of Fifth Avenue and among its membership are men who have made history making business and political deals.

In one of the all night restaurants the other night there was a very pretty young girl—one of the best of New York families. At her side was a tango worm, who is of the type of the original "social gangster."

A newspaper reporter stopped for a bite and saw them. He had the "makings" of a first page yarn for while he was there he saw the girl hand the man a roll of bills.

He began to spend it like a drunken sailor for wine for the house. The girl was becoming flushed with the wine and the reporter slipped out to the phone, called up the young lady's father and told him to come to the cafe at once. He pointed out his daughter to him, she was taken home and the reporter went out into the night.

Yet there are many who say New York reporters have no respect for other peoples' feelings.

Joan Sawyer is sailing for South America on a peculiar mission. She is going to teach them the tango.
